Valley Groups Oppose Subdivision Amendment

Four opposing letters from Carmel Valley groups won a continuation until September 11 of the Minor Subdivision Ordinance, at a hearing before the Planning Commission earlier this week. The ordinance would require approval by a group of three technical people of any division of land resulting in a parcel of less than 2 1/2 acres.

The CV Chamber of Commerce and the CV Realty Co., reporting separately on a joint meeting of Chamber directors and representative realtors, opposed the ordinance on the grounds that it placed such a burden of paper work upon a prospective buyer to determine whether his land was legally dividable that real

Little Leaguers Have a Ball

Winning teams of Carmel and Carmel Valley Little League enjoyed a swim at Carmel Valley Inn last Monday, followed by a hamburger and chocolate sundae repast and award ceremonies to top the season.

Joint hosts for the splashy affair were Hacienda Carmel Retirement Community -- sponsors of the Red Sox, Valley championship team--and Carmel Rancho Shopping Center. The shopping center also donated a winner's trophy which will be passed on to other victors in future years, and an individual cup to each member of the P. A. Macs, winning team of Carmel Little League, which subsequently defeated the Red Sox. P. A. McCreery of Carmel accepted the winner's trophy on behalf of the P. A. Macs, which are sponsored by P. A. McCreery, Allaire, Tomlinson, & Co.

Labor Day Concert

By the shores of Lake El Estero, the Fort Ord Army Concert Band will play for picnicking families (there are also barbecuing facilities) at 1:00 p. m. on Labor Day, next Monday. A park leader will be on hand to supervise younger children at adjoining Dennis the Menace Park.

PlanCom Denies Gas Station At Carmel Knolls

BY DOROTHY REED

To the applause of approximately 50 interested residents, the Planning Commission Tuesday denied the application of Monterey Peninsula Associates for rezoning one acre at the entrance to the Carmel Knolls to permit building a gas station there. At the request of Wright Fisher, representing the subdividers, a roll-call vote was taken, a procedure so rare in the Commission that action came to a halt while staff members scurried for a roll to call. The vote was five to one, with Commissioner Mansfield voting against denial, Commissioner Wilbur abstaining.

In an atmosphere of increasing tension through more than two hours of a Salinas summer afternoon, a formidable array of former military talent, speaking for the various local property owners associations, in their own words "beat off an enemy probe" of commercialism. At present, the land north of the CV Road in the vicinity of Highway One is all zoned single family residential, with the exception of a small parcel of C-1 property, most of which is expected to be acquired by the state for the Hatton Canyon freeway.

In the face of letters opposing his project from the lower Carmel Valley advisory committee and three civic associations as well as a number of individuals, Fisher made a presentation demonstrating that the acre in question is bounded by the four-lane CV Road, the prospective freeway, and Carmel Knolls Drive which curves in such a way as to form both eastern and northern edges of the property. In addition it is directly across the highway from the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center with its accompanying lights, traffic, stretches of asphalt, etc., and consequently, he maintained, unsuitable for residential use. He also passed around copies of a sales map indicating that the controversial acre, as well as a ten-acre piece on the other side of Carmel Knoils Drive, were shown in a color different from

It is not true, she reports regretfully, that Carmelo 4-H won a prize in the 4-H judging contest. "Actually, we didn't come off too well this year," Dawn reflected, "but we sure had fun--we've done better in some other years and I imagine we'll do better the next one!"

Little League Coaches Give A Lot

BY BONNIE HOLBROOK

Without men who are willing to donate a great deal of their leisure to working with boys, there would be no Little League. Well, there is! In its busy 7th season, Carmel Little League had the willing volunteer services of 6 major league managers and coaches and 8 minor league managers and coaches.

We asked a number of these, last week, "Why do you do it?" and "What do you get out of it?" Their answers were very similar.

Dick Colburn has just finished his first season as manager of the Carmel Plaza team in the minor league. He is a purchasing agent for Wilder & Jones and has three boys of his own.

SHORTAGE

"My 8-year old wanted to play ball, and there was a shortage of managers," Dick explained. "I took the job just to fill the gap. But I had a ball doing it!" He says he got a tremendous boot out of working with boys in this age-group, and plans to manage the team again next season.

Jack Cate, manager of the Wilder & Jones team, is a superintendent for Collins Electrical when not at the ball park; Dan Yurkovich, vice-principal of Carmel Junior High School, was their coach. Dan said that one of his sons has graduated from Little League, but two more will be playing one day. And--this is quite an answer from a man whose workday consists, also, of working with youngsters--he said that working with the boys in Little League for no monetary gain for the past seven years has given him "a great deal of satisfaction."

P. A. MACS

Lee McGuckin was manager and Henry Myers coach of the winning major league team this year--P. A. Macs. Lee is an engineer with the Carmel Fire Dept. and this past season was his third with Little League. He has four youngsters--girls 5 and 3, and boys 2 and 1 year.

We caught Lee just as he walked into his house from a vacation trip and threw our questions at him. His reactions were much the same as those of the others in our representative group: he said that he enjoys working with boys this age and feels he can really accomplish something by helping them.

"Teamwork--it was stressed from the start of the season. Some of the players on other teams were individually better than our boys, but our team worked at playing as a team."

THANK YOU!

The community is grateful to all the men who give their time year after year, and may we say a public thank you to them? Because of their interest, all of the boys from 8 to 12 with the desire can "play ball!"

In Carmel Valley. . .

BY JEANNINE BOTTARO

That's not a flying saucer you see. That's Bill Conlan, a fast-moving man who is in so many different places so fast it's hard to focus on him. Bill, who says he "fits in time once in a while" to work at his own electrical repair business in the Village, is usually speeding off to coach his Little League team or to board the fire truck as a volunteer fireman. But, along with his team of Little Leaguers, Bill received compensation for hard work at a luncheon Monday at Carmel Valley Inn where his team, the Red Sox, shared honors with the P. A. Macs, the team from Carmel, as the winning teams of the local competition. Hacienda Carmel, sponsors for the Red Sox, also sponsored the luncheon.

The boys from Carmel received trophies, and the Valley boys received autographed baseballs, and afterward the whole batch went swimming. Among the gang were two of Coach Bill's own boys, Bill, 11, and Jim, 10.

A solidly baseball family, the Conlans also include Robert, who was 9 last Sunday and who plays on the farm team, and Bill's wife, Benita, who never misses a game. As a member of the Women's Auxiliary of the Fire Department, she works in the refreshment booth sponsored by the auxiliary at the Little League games. Her brother, Bob Updike, is Bill's assistant coach.

The Conlans are both natives of the Peninsula and their busy lives have enriched their community in many ways. Benita teaches at the Carmel Mission school and will have young Bill in her fifth grade class this year. And according to the Conlans, their work enriches their lives too, and that's why they do it. Asked why he puts in all those hours for his Little Leaguers, Bill is apt to say, "Well, it's a heck of a lot of fun!"

(Ed. Note: Requested at the last minute to cover the visit to the Community Center board meeting of residents especially interested in a swimming pool, Jeannine found it impossible to continue obtaining information about the other Little League coaches of CV, who obviously deserve mention as well. Next week she'll have tracked down the remainder.)

HEY, MOM, PLEASE CHECK THE SHELVES

Miss Marjorie Ibsen, who gives unstintingly of her time and attention to foster the reading interests of Carmel Valley's young people, has a small request to make of their doting parents. Before school begins, please would you check with your youngsters and keep a sharp eye open for books around the house? It would be nice if all the overdue books were returned shortly to the Carmel Valley library, muses "Auntie Marge".

MARIACHI MUSIC

Brightly costumed mariachis played in the patio of the F. Robert Smith home on Friday evening during the cocktail party which Bob and Lilli gave for over 100 friends.

The music added to the Mexican fiesta atmosphere of the indoors and outdoors party. The Smiths, also many of their guests, have made winter visits to Puerta Vallarta and much of the conversation evoked nostalgia for the small Mexican tropical town bordering broad beaches on the Pacific shore.

JACK AND LACY HERE

On Sunday Jack and Lacy Faia and their 10-months-old daughter, Melissa, will return to Los Angeles where Jack will begin senior year studies in the school of dentistry at the University of Southern California. They have been guests of Jack's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Faia, Jr. during their two-week Carmel visit.

While here Melissa met for the first time the great-great-aunt for whom she is named. Mrs. Melissa Harris of Williamstown, Massachusetts, was the guest of Lacy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meade Williams, during her Carmel stay.

TO STUDY IN BOSTON

Nancy Lofton, the older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton, will leave soon for the east where she plans to study for a Massachusetts teaching credential. She graduated from the University of California, where she majored in English, last June.

IRWINS VISIT

This week, Mr. and Mrs. William Hyde Irwin of Brookdale were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gilbert in their Eighty Acres home. Bill, an artist, lived in Carmel some years ago and edited a weekly newspaper in addition to his painting. Sue was superintendent of art for San Francisco schools before she and her husband decided to live permanently in the Santa Cruz mountains.

IN SAN FRANCISCO

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Branson were in San Francisco this week for several days while Mr. Branson attended a Prudential Life Insurance Co. conference.

PARTY FOR MARCIA

DINNER DANCE

Mr. and Mrs. S.F.B. Morse will give a dinner dance at the Beach Club tomorrow evening in honor of Mr. Morse's granddaughter, Anne Walker, who will be presented at the San Francisco Cotillion in December. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Walker of La Jolla, are staying at River Ranch in Carmel Valley, as are, also, Sam and Mardi Morse of San Luis Obispo.

NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC

Many Carmelites will have extra guests this Labor Day weekend, here to attend the New York Philharmonic Orchestra concert at the Fairgrounds on Saturday night.

Leonard Bernstein, Philharmonic conductor, will be the guest of his friends Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ehrman, during his stay on the Peninsula.

COMING HOME

NEW CARMEL RESIDENTS

New owners of the green house near the corner of Santa Fe and Second are Mr. and Mrs. Mahmud Hariri, recently of Canada. Mr. Hariri, a writer, will teach at the Defense Language Institute.

From Pittsburg, California, and now homeowners at 161 Rio Road in Mission Fields are Lcdr. and Mrs. Ernest Fischbein. The former is on the staff at the Naval Postgraduate School. Their two sons are aged 8 1/2 and 10 years.

CARD FROM GAY

"Nearly all the countries we have visited seemed to be prosperous and their merchandise is far above what we expected, although prices are expensive," Gay Fremier reports in a postcard from Austria.

She is traveling in Europe for the second time this summer with her parents, Mr. ond Mrs. Walter J. Fremier--this trip by car. "We have 5,000 miles on the speedometer and did not even take it to Greece," Gay writes. "Driving is the only way to see Europe," she adds.

JAMES TRIO SUNDAY AT SUR SPRINGS

On Saturday and Sunday the James Trio of San Francisco will present chamber music at Big Sur Hot Springs. Both performances will begin at 9:15 p. m. Works by Bach, Fliere, Teleman, Piston, and others. An admission of $1.50 will be charged; no reservations necessary.

SCHOOL REGISTRATION

Elementary schools in the Carmel Unified School District will accept registration of students new to the district the week of September 3-6, from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. at the various school offices.

Parents of new students in the Upper Carmel Valley, grades K-6, will register at Tularcitos School, 35 Ford Road. Lower Carmel Valley residents will register at Carmelo School, Valley Road and Schulte Lane. New residents in the River area, Pebble Beach, Carmel Meadows, Carmel Knolls, Rancho Rio Vista and Carmel Highlands in grades K-4 will register at River School, Monte Verde and 15th Streets. All new fifth and sixth graders in Pebble Beach, Highlands and town area are to be registered at Sunset School, San Carlos and 9th Streets, in Carmel.

For kindergarteners, verification of birth will be necessary. For others a report card or transfer is desirable. Parents need not bring students for registration.

Sportscar Gymkhanna

Thirty-four members of the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club took part in a Gymkhana on the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center grounds Sunday, August 18. Top winner was Roy Parker in a Mini Cooper (with a time of 1:39.4 over the tortuous course of backing, parking, and obstacle running. Parker also made the best time in a "Fun Run", driving the course in the opposite direction.

First place winners in other classes were Eugene Betts in a TR 2, Bobby Smith (with a life-sized Teddy bear as the only passenger of the day) in an MG 1100, and Lori Meyer, top in the ladies class, driving a Sprite.

Coffee and rolls were served to participants and spectators by the Shopping Center management.

The Club meets the third Monday of each month at the Mark Thomas Inn, and members must be over 21, but need not own a sports car. Prospective enthusiasts may contact George Glendenning, (373-3211).

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

A week ago Wednesday, our Collie was found where he had been hit by a car and left to die. Very fortunately, Mr. Allen Graham picked him up and put him by the veterinary office at 4:30 a. m. and that is where we discovered him later that morning.

Since it seems to be a well-known fact (by everyone excepting police) that teenagers hot rod through the Village streets at night, I expect one of them hit our dog. Whoever, teen or adult, did hit him certainly was well aware of it because he is not a small dog. Since there is no leash law in this county, a driver who hits a dog is responsible, after all, the same as he would be for any type of property damage. All drivers are, by law, required to carry liability insurance.

Therefore, why wouldn't the driver of the car have the decency to do what Mr. Graham did? Oh, I am well aware that the kind of person who left our dog injured will probably not now show up to be responsible for the large hospital bill. However, I should like to thank Mr. Graham publicly for his efforts. Our Collie, Jock, did live--thanks to Mr. Graham and Dr. Petkus, and will come home today, although it will take many months before he is fully recovered.

Sincerely,
Susan Stone

(Ed. Note:) Many people who are fond of animals--including ourselves--will share your understandable indignation.

But one of the basic principles of justice has always been that an individual--in this case, a whole group--be adjudged innocent until proven guilty. Sometimes people become very impatient with this principle, which on occasion undoubtedly allows some criminals to go unpunished. Lately there appear to have been several such incidents in the Valley, so that a number of residents are angry on this score.

Even so, in several instances, we regret even a hint of forgetfulness of the basic beliefs which have made our country traditionally the ideal of the freedom-loving.

We also think it extremely important that our many fine teen-agers as a group not be maligned because we have a handful of "bad apples" in the Valley. As the law enforcement authorities recently pointed out, we probably have fewer of these proportionally than other nearby communities!

We are as eager as you to locate and punish the few irresponsible elements in the community--but with evidence not innuendo. See below!

REWARD OFFERED

The Outlook will offer a $25 reward to anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who injured the Stones' dog with an auto--and fled the scene! --B. B.)

Dear Mrs. Branch:

We should like to express our appreciation of the donated space in the Outlook for August 1, publicizing the California Roadside Council. This notice is an excellent contribution to our work, and we are grateful.

Today Monterey County can be said to be "sitting pretty", so far as billboard control is concerned, due to the excellent accomplishments of your County Planning Department, plus the vindication, last year, of a key provision in your County Zoning Ordinance by the Appellate Court. For the latter victory, Monterey County residents can thank their officials in the County Counsel's Office, especially John O. Thornberry, who represented the County in the court proceedings, and the Board of Supervisors, who refused to be frightened out of pursuing this test case to the limit. All California is indebted to Monterey County for its part in this significant case...

Anyone interested in the work of the California Council may write to our headquarters, 12 Garces Drive, San Francisco 27, or call Mr. John S. Stanton of Carmel, our Regional Representative.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ralph A. Reynolds,
Executive Vice President,
California Roadside Council.

Notes from Hacienda Carmel

BY MARJORIE WEBER

Mrs. Ray Esplen is not a resident of Hacienda Carmel, but she has, in truth, become a member of our community. Music and friendliness--two forces that are becoming a part of our growing tradition--have made her one of us.

At a time when Hacienda Carmel was but recently established, Mr. and Mrs. Esplen drove over from their home in Pebble Beach to visit, as a great many people have done. Naturally they stopped in to see Casa Central and Mrs. Esplen, a professionally trained and experienced pianist, was attracted by the grand piano in the lounge. Spontaneously she asked if she might try it, and naturally was told to play whatever she liked.

Mrs. Esplen, who has performed on the radio and has also taught piano, has been coming often since then, quite as a volunteer, to provide music for us. Sometimes she delights us with dinner music on weekends; sometimes she accompanies our community singing, which is usually held after the pot-luck or barbecue suppers we have been having on alternate Mondays almost since the Hacienda opened. She is always ready to contribute to our pleasure with music appropriate to the occasion.

Mrs. Esplen is an extraordinarily friendly person, generous with her time and talents, and her gentle unobtrusive ways of expressing this friendliness have won a warm response. Mr. Esplen, also, has found that he can pursue one of his special interests here. While his wife is playing for us, he is to be seen at the library end of the lounge, browsing among the books and magazines, or intently reading something that has attracted his interest. Both of the Esplens have made themselves a real part of the Hacienda community by their simple, kindly good neighborliness.

Two political groups, the CV unit of the United Republicans of California and the Young Republicans of Carmel Valley stated that as written, the ordinance was too restrictive on the rights of individuals as regards the use of their property.

CV's Larry Cummings was present to speak on both points.

Commissioner Edward Marcucci suggested a meeting of interested parties with the Plan-Com staff to work out differences, and on that basis the continuation was voted.

Also continued were tentative subdivisions Rioway Tract #2 in Carmel and Rancho Tierra Grande Unit #2 in Carmel Valley.

The Commission passed an amendment to the zoning ordinance requiring its approval of plans for any construction or removal or deposit of natural material in Scenic Conservation or "SC" districts.

Pretty Pamela Jean Gamble has traded her crown of California Gold (worn as last year's Miss California) for a new tiara of pale green during her reign as "Miss Iceberg Lettuce." Pam was on hand to participate in the ceremonies when the one millionth car containing 26,000 heads of lettuce was shipped from Salinas last week.

Mrs. Jane Cropley, who makes her home on Boronda Road with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Laird, has returned from a month in Concord.

Guests enjoyed games and refreshments at the recent party featuring a line of plastics held at the home of Mrs. Robert Davis. The ware was demonstrated by Mrs. J.C. Hill of Monterey. Attending were Miss Winifred Howe, Miss Alice Harwood, Mrs. Cal Garner, Mrs. John Woods, Mrs. Fred Boehme, Mrs. Reginald Bennett, Mrs. Bob Fuller, Mrs. Bud Powell, Mrs. Mike Carter, Mrs. Bill Neidinger, and Mrs. Herb Reuter.

Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thornburg and three children, former Glendale residents, who have taken the Fletcher house on Garzas Road. Moving --which can be hectic under the best of conditions--was made even more difficult for the Thornburgs. Their daughter was stricken enroute with mumps, and there was an unforeseen delay in the shipment of their furniture.

The West Carmel Valley Road home, nearing completion, of Mrs. F.G. Cruickshank has been the focal point of interest since construction began. But the addition of the handsome wrought iron gate with a design of horses caught the attention of tourists and residents alike going to and from the Village over the weekend.

Patricia Gardiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gardiner, invited soon-to-be third grade classmates to a luncheon and swimming party Saturday in honor of her eighth birthday. Attending were Molly O'Neal, Kathy Neill, Nancy Walker, and Heidi Hattan. Here for the occasion and a two-week visit from their home in Haverton, Pa. are Tricia's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Montgomery.

Our claim as champion sunflower growers of Carmel Valley was challenged and... ALAS ... defeat! Our 21" blossom on a nine-foot stalk fell like a redwood when faced with eighteen blossoms on a single stalk grown by Mr. and Mrs. S.G. Brown of Hitchcock Canyon. The wonders of Carmel Valley sun and soil!

Former residents Mr. and Mrs. Rudi Rueger and children Suzie, Heidi, Peter and Paul, visited their many Valley friends last week enroute to their home in Santa Paula. Towing a house trailer, the Ruegers had vacationed throughout the state and Oregon and had encountered more than once the "no vacancy" signs at camping sites. One late night they found an "ideal park" and were backing their trailer into the designated spot marked by white painted lines. Just then the field lights came on and they found themselves surrounded by eight airplanes in the middle of an airstrip!

It is with pleasure that we welcome two new families to the Valley. Both are faculty members at MPC. The Art Oswalds have purchased a home on Ford Road. Art is in the Social Science Department. Mary is also a teacher and will commute to her school in Seaside. Her mother has arrived for an extended visit.

Al and Jackie Giordano have recently rented Lou Ebert's post adobe home on West Carmel Valley Road near Boronda Road. Al has been teaching business classes at the college, and is currently working on his doctor's degree. Two boys and a girl complete the Giordano family. After living in Pacific Grove for six years, Jackie and Al have purchased property on Upper Circle and plan to build there in the future.

"...Pau was bigger than we had imagined -- 70,000 people, and they expect to have 100,000 soon. It is on two levels the railroad station and river Gave down below, most of the town up above. A tiny funicular railway plies between the station and the Boulevard Des Pyrenees, where the Hotel de France is located.

"The hotel has a magnificent view of the Pyrenees -- they remind me of the Sierra Nevada as seen from Grenada, except that they have more snow and extend much farther along the horizon.."

While scouting locations and awaiting a definite starting date with permission to shoot at Lourdes, the Woolfendens were taken there by a guide from Pau.

"It's about 40 kilometers from Pau and right at the foot of the mountains, in a very pretty setting. Due to overnight snow, it was also mighty cold. The road parallels the river, then winds through the town of Lourdes.

"Since this was Ascension Day, the pilgrims were out in force, including a large section of the Belgian Army, which was stringing lights for a night-time procession. On the right are the hospital quarters for wheelchair patients; on the left, a mammoth underground auditorium which looks like a sports palace and must hold thousands. It has a small chapel on one side where nuns in white pray constantly...

"A curving ramp goes up from either side of the entrance drive to the upper level of the hillside churches. In the opposite direction you look down on the crowds before the Grotto statue, of the Virgin. The cliffside must originally have been the river bank, but the course of the Gave has been moved here, so that a large courtyard could be paved in front of this shrine. A priest was conducting a Service in German as we passed by. Beyond, also cut into the hillside, are the baths.

"As Betty said, whatever you are looking for at Lourdes, you can doubtless find... but it must be a far cry from the days when Lourdes was a little cluster of houses below the craggy castle, and before Bernadette had her vision!"

Returning to Pau, the Woolfendens were shown the location shooting sites... "mostly in old streets and alleys running between the two levels of the town. In the suburbs, bulldozers are clearing hundreds of acres of woodland to make way for mammoth apartment houses. I guess you just can't escape this sort of thing, wherever you go."

We enjoy hearing news of Valleyites such a long way from home, and hope that you do, too."

AID CALLS

Members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department made three emergency first aid calls during the week in their Red Cross ambulance. At 12:54 p.m. August 24 Leslie Golden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Golden of Sage Road was transported to the Community Hospital where she was treated for severe facial injuries received when hit by a rock.

A second call on the 24th at 11:57 p.m. took Betty "Stevie" Knutsen of Upper Circle to the Community Hospital with lacerations of the head.

August 25 at 1:03 p.m. Miss Frances M. Clark, 775 Cragmont Blvd., Berkeley, walked through a plate glass door while visiting on Lower Circle and was taken to Dr. Van Horn's office where she was treated for lacerations of both legs.

Here's the History of That Old Hatton House

BY MARJORY LLOYD

A few weeks ago descendants of William and Kate Hatton sat around the dining table in the big white house which was built in 1895 on a knoll at the entrance to Carmel Valley.

But the flames consumed remnants of the past.... discards of a time when seven children of William and Kate Hatton sat at the table, looked out of the bow window on the bank of red geraniums under the tall cypress hedge which shelters the old frame house on three sides.

The Hatton house has been sold to the subdivider of the surrounding acres. Family members had paused for a time from clearing the house of its furnishings and accumulated miscellany of several lifetimes.

On the pages of ledgers, brown with age, they had discovered descriptions and itemized costs of almost every piece of Victorian furniture and ornament in the house. Most had been bought in San Francisco from W. & J. Sloane during the 1890's. The carefully kept account books also disclosed the cost of building the 18-room mansion.

While they drank coffee, the group looked at old photographs. The grandchildren were pictured in some of them. They reminisced about family occasions, times when the table was extended to its fullest length for Christmas dinner and the tree in the hall, placed in the staircase ell, touched the ceiling.

They talked of the constant flow of guests for the hospitality extended by William and Kate Hatton was almost unlimited.

William Hatton, builder of the house which looks over the Valley, was born in England and lived in Ireland before coming to California to be manager of the Pacific Improvement Company.

During the Civil War he met Kate Harney in South Carolina. She later traveled West to marry him. They lived in a house, since demolished, on a knoll near Highway One on what is now the Odello Ranch, also in what is now Los Laureles Lodge, before building the 18-room house surrounded by the 4,400 acres of land William Hatton had bought in the lower Valley.

Nine children were born to them. Two died in infancy but Anna, Harriet, Sarah, Edward, William, Frank and Howard moved with their parents into the new home.

In the house that sunny afternoon last month could be seen mementos of their childhood and youth. On a bookcase in the hall were two dolls dressed in clothing meticulously stitched by hand. Upstairs in Mrs. Hatton's desk were treasured poems and pictures given her by the children. Anna's china-painting kit and some unfinished dishes were shown.

William Hatton did not live long to enjoy his house and family. Death came for the handsome, full-bearded man when he was 41 years old. His wife lived on until 1922. Then their unmarried daughter, Harriet, carried on the traditions of the house until she died.

During all the years, the house has remained almost exactly as it was in Mr. and Mrs. Hatton's day, although used by various members of the family.

Thus it was possible for a recent visitor to envision the past life of the Hatton house during the latter years of the last century and the beginning years of this.

A curving drive ends at the garden gate. From the broad front verandah visitors enter the house through inner and outer double doors. A tall window halfway up the stairs lights the hall.

Beyond the dining room is a large butler's pantry, then huge kitchens. Laundry, larder and servants' quarters are at the back of the ground floor surrounded on two sides by a wide porch. There is a back staircase.

One family bedroom is on the ground floor. The rest are on each side of the hall which extends from front to back of the upstairs. Above the harness room is a linen room. Atop the house is the attic. Bathrooms are both upstairs and down.

Hidden from view to the east of the big house is a smaller dwelling. One of the first wooden houses in Carmel Valley, it was built across the river for Henry H. Haight, Governor of California (1867-71).

What's in Store For Hatton Home?

Monterey Peninsula Associates, subdividers of Carmel Knolls, will take title on September 1 to the .8 acre of land which holds the old Hatton home, according to Wright Fisher, manager of the company. Asked about plans for the house, Fisher replied, "none," but that "it would probably be taken down."

The acquisition consolidates the company's ownership of a 10-acre piece north of CV Road and east of Carmel Knolls Drive; at a recent planning commission meeting an artist's drawing of these acres was shown, containing a motel, restaurant, professional offices, and multiple dwellings.

HERE'S THE HISTORY OF THE HATTON HOUSE

William Hatton bought the house, floated it across the river and carted it to its present site for use as a guest house. For some years it was also used as the abode of Mrs. Hatton's sisters when they came here from the South.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hatton restored the Haight house for their first home. It is still occupied as a residence.

Even though somewhat disordered last month, the Hatton house vividly portrayed the well-ordered life, the generous hospitality and close family ties of its first inhabitants.

During the elegant era of California's post-Civil War expansion many of these great wooden houses were built. Few remain for future generations to see.

None of William and Kate Hatton's children are alive today. Among the group in the old house last month were two of their granddaughters, Mrs. Leonard S. Williams and Mrs. Willard Branson; three great-grandchildren, Kate, Philip and Dryden Branson; and one great-great-grandchild, Anna Lucinda Williams, all of whom live in the Valley.

Rancho Rio Vista

BY BARBARA LITTS

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bruce and daughters have returned from a six-week auto trip covering 16 states. They camped in state and national parks along the way and spent some time with relatives in Missouri. Jack and his neighbor "ham" in Rio Vista, WA6YOV, (both members of the Valley Amateur Radio Operators' Club) maintained daily contact through his mobile unit.

New residents of our section are: Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Freeman, who have recently completed their residence off Rio Vista Dr. After spending their vacation here, they are now at his diplomatic post in South America, where they reside the major portion of the year. Mr. Freeman is our U. S. ambassador in Bogota, Colombia.

Herbert and Mary Angier and three children moved from Carmel to a new home on Arriba del Mundo. Mr. Angier is in business at the Village Inn, Carmel.

Dr. and Mrs. Glen Jung, with their five children, occupy a new house on Rio Vista Dr. The Jungs lived in other Peninsula communities for the past five years. Dr. Jung is an Associate Professor in Oceanography at the Naval Postgraduate School.

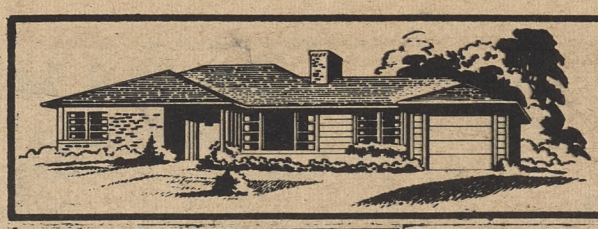
Also transferring from a neighboring spot to get more breathing space, are Steve and Louise Canepa and four younger Canepas, now situated in their new abode on Marguerita Dr. Mr. Canepa is Chronicle distributor for this area.

MANY NEW RESIDENTS IN MISSION FIELDS

Two new families on Mission Fields Rd. are those of Lt. and Mrs. Milton Bank and Cdr. and Mrs. Edward W. Thomas. The Banks, at 22 M. F. Road, have a 4-year old son and expect another offspring early next year. Lt. Bank is a pilot at the Postgraduate School and expects to be here three years. The Thomases, at 73 M. F. Road, have two daughters--Sarah, 15, and Carolyn, 12. Cdr. Thomas will be at the Postgraduate School one year. His last assignment was Turkey.

At 52 Fisher Dr. are Lcdr. and Mrs. Robert A. Phillips--he's also an NPG student. Their two boys are aged 8 and 5, and the eldest child, a daughter, is 10. At 33 Fisher Drive Major and Mrs. James Neeson are now "at home". Major Neeson is stationed at Fort Ord. Their two boys are aged 10 and 11; their baby girl, 9 months.

At 17 Birch Place the newcomers are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ward. He's with HUMMRO at the Presidio. With them from Fort Benning, Georgia, came their 4 boys: 14 years old, twins of 12 years, and the youngest, 6.



TWO CHARMING CABINS on a picturesque level building site with complete privacy. Ideal as it is for a fun spot, or as a guest house and building site. A "natural" for a swimming pool installation. $12,500.
